The Ibrahim Index of African Governance (IIAG) is a tool that measures and monitors governance performance in African countries.

The Mo Ibrahim Foundation defines governance as the provision of the political, social and economic public goods and services that every citizen has the right to expect from their state, and that a state has the responsibility to deliver to its citizens. In the IIAG, country performance in delivering governance is measured across four key components that effectively provide indicators of a country's Overall Governance performance.

The key components that form the four categories of the IIAG as described in the diagram below are Safety & Rule of Law, Participation & Human Rights, Sustainable Economic Opportunity and Human Development. Each of these categories contains subcategories under which we have organised various indicators that provide quantifiable measures of the overarching dimensions of governance. In total, the IIAG contains 100 indicators.

Published since 2007, the IIAG was created to provide a quantifiable tool to measure and monitor governance performance in African countries, to assess their progress over time and to support the development of effective and responsive policy solutions. The IIAG focuses on measuring outputs and outcomes of policy, rather than declarations of intent, de jure statutes and levels of expenditure.

The IIAG provides data measuring the governance performance across all the dimensions described above for all 54 African countries for the years from 2000-2017. In order to provide a broad, documented and impartial picture of governance performance in every African country, the indicators used to measure governance in Africa are collected from 36 independent sources. For an indicator to be included in the IIAG, it has to meet certain criteria. For a full explanation of how the IIAG is constructed, please see the methodology on our website.

The entire Index time series is updated every year to ensure that each new IIAG provides the most accurate data available. This process ensures that the Index is the most robust and up-to-date dashboard of the state of governance in every African country.

The Mo Ibrahim Foundation is fully transparent. This report publishes only a summary of results and methodology. We publish all country scores, full details and all information regarding the construction of the IIAG on our website.

Key Indicator Source acronym

The 2017 Ibrahim Index of African Governance (IIAG) covers 17 years' worth of data from 2000-2016 inclusive for all 54 African countries. The construction method provides vast amounts of data. In total there are 211,889 data points.

To construct the 2017 IIAG, the Foundation's Research Team collected 177 variables that measure governance concepts from 36 sources. These were combined to form 100 indicators, which are organised under the IIAG's key governance dimensions; the 14 sub-categories and four categories that make up the Overall Governance score. Including all the data collected from source and the calculations made expressly for the IIAG, there are a total of 251 different measures of governance in Africa in the 2017 IIAG. These range from indicators that measure specific issues such as the Independence of the Judiciary, which is one part of the broader sub-category measure Rule of Law, which is in turn one part of the overarching category measure Safety & Rule of Law.

Structure & levels

To fully assess any country's governance performance, it is vital to drill down beyond the broader measures such as the Overall Governance score to take into account country performances across the different governance dimensions encompassed by the categories, sub-categories and indicators of the IIAG. Country performance can vary across these dimensions. For example, in the 2017 IIAG Tunisia ranks 7th in Overall Governance, scoring 65.5 (out of 100.0). The country is in the top ten in each governance category in the IIAG except Safety & Rule of Law, where it ranks 14th and has shown the sixth largest deterioration on the continent in the sub-category Personal Safety over the last ten-year period. Meanwhile, in the same period, it is the most improved country in the category Participation & Human Rights, driven by an improvement of almost +60.0 in the Participation sub-category, the biggest improvement shown by any country on the continent over this period.

The benefit of the IIAG structure is that country or group performance can be assessed holistically through the broader measures but users can also drill down to assess performance in specific governance issues.

Scores, ranks & trends

IIAG results can be classified into three main types: score, rank and trend.

All three results must be considered when studying the Index, as each type of result gives context to the others. For example, looking only at rank or score without considering trends overlooks the important trajectories that countries follow. In the 2017 IIAG for example, Ghana ranks in the top ten highest scoring countries (8th) with a score of 65.0 (out of 100.0) in Overall Governance. In the last ten years however it is also the eighth most deteriorated country on the continent in Overall Governance having declined by -1.5 points in this period. In the same way that trends should be taken into account when looking at scores and ranks, when looking at trends it is important to take into account the level of score and rank. Zimbabwe, for example, shows the third largest improvement on the continent in Overall Governance (+9.5) over ten years but still ranks in the bottom half (40th) on the continent with a score of 45.4 which is below the African average score of 50.8.

Group averages

By averaging the scores of countries, the IIAG provides group analysis for a variety of different group compositions. For this report, key findings are often provided for 'Africa'. These results are the average of the scores of 54 African countries, at all levels of the IIAG. However, Africa is a diverse continent with vastly different countries, and readers of this report are advised not to over analyse the continental findings. This report focuses on presenting the top-level findings of the 2017 IIAG for Africa as well as other groups, such as regions. In-depth analysis of countries and other groupings are available via our other publications and tools on our website.

Country and group trends can vary drastically depending on the base year for analysis. Whilst a country can register improvement or decline over the last ten years, it may show the opposite trend in the last five years. The IIAG results reveal that governance performance is not linear. Countries regularly improve or decline between years. Since the start of the IIAG time series (2000), Rwanda is the only country in Africa to show year-on-year improvement of their Overall Governance score. No country registers year-on-year decline.

Due to the constantly moving nature of governance performance, the 2017 IIAG analysis focuses on assessing trends in the last five years (2012-2016), within the context of the last decade (2007-2016).

This analysis provides long-term findings as well as focusing on the short-term, in order to provide a more nuanced assessment of the performance and trajectories of countries, regions and groups.

The intention of this analysis is to illustrate that whilst the IIAG can be used to view long-term trends, due to the changing nature of governance performance, it is important to assess both the long-term and short-term alongside each other.

Whilst a country can either improve or deteriorate over the decade, the trend displayed in recent years shows important and useful characteristics for analysis.

Whilst registering improvement over the decade, a country can, over the last five years:

- · Increase its rate of improvement;
- · Slow its rate of improvement;
- Show recent decline.

Similarly, a country showing decline over the decade can, over the last five years:

- · Increase its rate of decline;
- · Slow its rate of decline;
- Show recent improvement.

In order to capture these 'trends within trends', countries are classified according to the direction and size of their annual average trend in the most recent five years, compared to the direction and size of their annual average trend shown over a decade.

The time periods used for analysis are:

Ten-year period: 2007-2016

Five-year period: 2012-2016

To determine whether progress/decline is quickening/slowing, the annual average trend for each period is calculated.

The annual average trend for the ten-year period is the total change in score between 2007 and 2016, divided by nine (the number of annual time periods experienced).

The annual average trend for the five-year period is the total change in score between 2012 and 2016, divided by four (the number of annual time periods experienced).

In total, there are six groups of trajectories: 'Increasing Improvement', 'Slowing Improvement', 'Warning Signs', 'Bouncing Back', 'Slowing Deterioration' or 'Increasing Deterioration'.

These classifications are applied to all measures in the IIAG, and are used for groups as well as countries.

Classification	Characteristic
Increasing Improvement	Annual average improvement over both periods, accelerating in the last five years
Slowing Improvement	Annual average improvement over both periods, losing momentum in the last five years
Warning Signs	Annual average improvement over the decade, but decline in the last five years*
Bouncing Back	Annual average decline over the decade, but improvement in the last five years*
Slowing Deterioration	Annual average decline over both periods, decelerating in the last five years
Increasing Deterioration	Annual average decline over both periods, worsening in the last five years

^{*} Where trends are static (show no change), the following classifications are applied: Static (over ten years) to decline (over five years): 'Warning Signs' | Improve (over ten years) to static (over five years): 'Warning Signs' | Decline (over ten years) to static (over five years): 'Bouncing Back'

A 'No Change' classification is applied in three instances. 1. When the annual average trend is exactly the same in both periods (if annual average trend appears the same but a classification is given, differences will exist beyond the second decimal place). 2. When a country/group achieves the best possible score (100.0) in 2012 and in 2016. 3. When a country/group achieves the worst possible score (0.0) in 2012 and 2016. In these latter two, no classification can be applied as scores can not go higher or lower.

Annual Average Trend = Total change in score between years / Number of annual time periods

10-year & 5-year annual average trends

Countries ordered by size of the 10-year trend.

Overall Governance: the long-term trajectory remains positive, but the pace of progress has slowed

The African continent has, on average, been improving in Overall Governance. Looking back over the last decade (2007-2016) the African average score has improved by +1.4 score points from 49.4 (out of 100.0) to 50.8, reaching in 2016 its highest score since the IIAG's first data year (2000).

However, while Overall Governance has improved over the last decade at an average yearly rate of +0.16, over the latter part of this period (the last five years, 2012-2016) the pace of progress has slowed down, improving only at an average yearly rate of +0.10.

Contrasting performance at category level

This slowing continental trend in the last five years at Overall Governance level is reflected by varying performances in the underlying governance categories.

Over the last decade, overall progress has been driven by improved performance in three of the four governance categories of the IIAG, Human Development (+4.4), Participation & Human Rights (+2.2) and Sustainable Economic Opportunity (+1.3).

However, further progress has been hindered by a decline, on average, in Safety & Rule of Law (-2.4).

Looking at the last five years within this period, varying trends appear. Human Development and Sustainable Economic Opportunity are still progressing, but at a slower pace. Participation & Human Rights is the only category to marginally pick up speed. Conversely, deterioration in Safety & Rule of Law, although still present, shows signs of abating.

Progress for the majority but no time for complacency

The positive trend over the last decade at continental level in Overall Governance is mirrored by 40 countries which improve over this period. Only 12 countries deteriorate and one (Malawi) shows no change.¹

However, if for the vast majority of the continent performance in Overall Governance is on the up, several countries are showing signs of slowing or even reversing their performance. Looking closely at the latter five years of the last decade, only 34 countries are now improving while 20 countries are showing decline.

'Increasing Improvement': 18 countries

Of the 40 countries that improve in Overall Governance in the last ten years, 18 are picking up pace over the last five years. In the last five years, their annual average increase in score is greater than that of the last ten years. This includes only four of the top ten highest scoring countries in Overall Governance in 2016: Seychelles (2nd), Namibia (5th), Tunisia (7th) and Senegal (10th).

Côte d'Ivoire, though still ranking 20th in 2016, and starting from a very low score, is the most impressive of this group, with an annual average trend of +2.05 in the last five years (compared to an annual average increase over the decade of +1.40).

'Slowing Improvement' & 'Warning Signs': 23 countries

Of the 40 countries to show improvement in Overall Governance over the last ten years, 13 are registering 'Slowing Improvement' (their rate of improvement is slower in the last five years compared to the last ten) while ten register 'Warning Signs' (despite maintaining an improvement over the decade or remaining static, they register deterioration in the last five years).

Thirteen countries are improving at a slower rate in the last five years than they have in the last ten. Rwanda, the fourth most improved country on the continent over the decade, with an average annual increase of +0.97 points, has slowed down to a +0.75 average annual increase in the last five years. Likewise, Liberia, the joint fifth most improved country over the last ten years, is only increasing its score by +0.18 on average per year in the last five years, compared to +0.72 in the last ten.

More concerningly, ten countries, whilst still showing a positive (or static) trend over the decade, are registering decline in the latter half of this period. Two (Mauritius and Cabo Verde) are still currently in the top five highest scoring countries in 2016. These deteriorations threaten to reverse the improvements made in governance performance over a decade.

Countries showing 'Warning Signs'

45	Angola	39.4	+3.8	+0.42	-1.2	-0.30

At the other end of the rankings, Angola's decline in the last five years (at an average annual rate of -0.30) also threatens to reverse the progress made over the decade. Having consistently ranked in the bottom ten since 2000 (the first data year in the IIAG), the country moved out of the bottom ten in 2012, but has since fallen back amongst the ten lowest ranking countries on the continent.

'Slowing Deterioration' & 'Bouncing Back': 4 countries

Three countries — South Africa, Mali and Madagascar — though still registering a deterioration over the decade, show signs of 'Bouncing Back', potentially reversing decline over the decade by registering a positive trend in the last five years.

Madagascar is the most impressive of these, showing an annual average decline of -0.73 score points per year over the decade (the second most deteriorated country on the continent in this period) but an improvement of +0.83 in the last five years, which makes it the ninth most improved over this period.

'Increasing Deterioration': 8 countries

Eight countries that register decline over the decade show no signs of turning things around, decreasing at a faster rate in the last five years.

Whilst countries such as Burundi, Libya and Central African Republic register the effects of ongoing crises, worryingly Botswana and Ghana, though still featuring among the top ten performing countries in 2016, are also the seventh and sixth most deteriorated countries in the last five years.

Five years post Arab Spring: mixed results

In 2011 protesters took to the streets in Egypt, Libya and Tunisia, pushing their leaders to leave office. Five years later, the IIAG results appear mixed.

Overall Governance	2016 Score	Trend 2007-2016	Annual average trend	Trend 2012-2016	Annual average trend

49 Libya	33.3	-13.3	-1.48	-11.8	-2.95

At the Overall Governance level, Tunisia (7th) and Egypt (31st) show causes for optimism. Both countries have managed to show 'Increasing Improvement' over the last five years.

Egypt has more than tripled its annual pace of improvement (+0.55) when compared to the last ten years (+0.17).

Tunisia has also augmented its annual average trend from +0.61 over the last decade to +0.90 over the last five years. In 2016, Tunisia is the highest scoring Arab Spring country in all the categories and in ten of the 14 sub-categories (Rule of Law, Accountability, Personal Safety, National Security, Participation, Rights, Gender, Public Management, Welfare and Education).

Meanwhile, Libya (49th) shows concerning signs with an 'Increasing Deterioration' of its overall score. The country has almost doubled its average annual trend of deterioration in the last five years (-2.95) when compared to the last ten years (-1.48).

At the category level, Tunisia and Egypt have been displaying optimistic signs in Safety & Rule of Law, Sustainable Economic Opportunity and Human Development over the last five years:

In Safety & Rule of Law Tunisia is showing increasing improvement while Egypt is bouncing back from a negative ten-year trend.

In Sustainable Economic Opportunity Tunisia displays slowing deterioration while Egypt has more than doubled its rate of improvement (+1.93) when compared with the last ten years (+0.74). This is the only category where both countries are featured in the ten highest scoring countries.

Finally, in Human Development Tunisia is bouncing back from a negative ten-year trend while Egypt has more than doubled its rate of improvement (+1.75) when compared with the last ten years (+0.78).

However, the trend in Participation & Human Rights over the last five years could be concerning:

The largest improver of the continent over the past decade (+3.19 per year), Tunisia's scores had been barely static until 2010. In one year only, between 2010 and 2011, the country grew by +13.8 points in Participation & Human Rights. However, Tunisia's progress has been slowing down over the last five years (+2.73 per year), though still at striking levels.

More concerningly, within a positive ten-year trend, Egypt displays the second largest deterioration of the continent over the last five years (-1.55), pointing to 'Warning Signs'.

Libya displays concerning signs across all categories.

Over the past five years, Libya has increasingly deteriorated in Safety & Rule of Law (50th), Sustainable Economic Opportunity (52nd) and Human Development (18th). The country has been the largest deteriorator of the continent in Sustainable Economic Opportunity and Human Development, and the third largest in Safety & Rule of Law.

Libya registers its sole category improvement over the last decade in Participation & Human Rights (+8.3). However, the country shows 'Warning Signs' by moving from the 8th largest improver in the category over the decade, to register the largest score fall on the continent over the last five years (-7.4).

At the sub-category level, Health, Gender and Participation are the only sub-categories where Tunisia, Egypt and Libya have all improved in the last decade. Conversely, in National Security and Personal Safety all three countries have deteriorated.

10-year & 5-year annual average trends

Countries ordered by size of the 10-year trend.

Safety & Rule of Law: mixed signs of hope within a decade long negative trend

Safety & Rule of Law is the only governance category showing deterioration over the last ten years: the continental average score has deteriorated at an average pace of -0.27 score points per year, holding back greater progress at the Overall Governance level.

However, the pace of deterioration appears to be slowing. Looking at the last five years, Africa's decline in this category has slowed down to an average pace of -0.18 points per year, less than the average pace of decline seen over ten years. Africa's score has even improved by +0.8 between 2015 and 2016.

This 'Slowing Deterioration' is largely the result of several countries' improving performance in the recent five-year period, especially in two of Safety & Rule of Law's sub-categories.

The African average score for Rule of Law has bounced back to reach the same score as ten years ago, reversing decline seen in the first part of the last decade with an annual average improvement of +0.50 points within the last five years.

In the same period, although still declining, Personal Safety is doing so at less than half the average pace seen over the decade. The decline over ten years in Personal Safety is still, however, the largest of the sub-category deteriorations seen in the IIAG over ten years.

However, concerningly, National Security shows 'Increasing Deterioration'. Having declined by -3.7 points over the last ten years at an average yearly rate of -0.41, the pace of deterioration in the last five years has more than doubled, declining at an average rate of -0.95 per year.

Meanwhile, the progress registered over the last decade in Accountability, the lowest scoring sub-category in the IIAG with 35.8 points, remains marginal and is losing momentum.

Hopeful signs for some?

The decelerating pace of deterioration on the continent in Safety & Rule of Law is also seen in the fact that in the last five years, fewer countries have deteriorated and more have improved. In the last five years, 28 countries have been able to register improvement, even though 25 are still showing deterioration, the largest number of countries deteriorating in any of the governance categories of the IIAG in this period.

Of the countries that have declined over the last decade, more than half (18) are showing signs of either 'Bouncing Back' with a positive recent five-year trend, or 'Slowing Deterioration'.

'Slowing Deterioration' & 'Bouncing Back': 18 countries

Six countries — Algeria, Benin, Eritrea, Malawi, Mauritania and Sudan — register 'Slowing Deterioration' with an average annual rate of decline that is slower in the last five years than in the last ten.

Twelve countries — Burkina Faso, Democratic Republic of Congo, Egypt, Guinea-Bissau, Madagascar, Mali, Morocco, Nigeria, Rwanda, São Tomé & Príncipe, Seychelles and South Africa — are 'Bouncing Back', registering a positive trend in the last five years, although this doesn't allow them to fully change their ten-year negative trajectory.

As seen at the Overall Governance level, Madagascar displays the most notable result of this group. The sixth most deteriorated country over the last decade (with an average decline of -0.96 score points per year since 2007), Madagascar becomes the second most improved country in this category in the last five years with an average increase of +1.85 points per year.

'Increasing Deterioration': 15 countries

The other 15 of the 33 declining countries over the last decade however have shown 'Increasing Deterioration' in the last five years, with the annual average pace of decline quickening over this period. Of these, Burundi, Cameroon, Central African Republic, Gambia, Libya and Mozambique show 'Increasing Deterioration' in three or all of the four sub-categories of Safety & Rule of Law. While Burundi, Central African Republic and Libya register the effects of on-going crises, the negative trends in Cameroon and Mozambique are concerning.

'Increasing Improvement': 11 countries

Eleven of the 20 countries that register improvement over the decade are accelerating progress in the last five years. Of these, three countries show 'Increasing Improvement' in three or all of Safety & Rule of Law's sub-categories (Côte d'Ivoire, Tanzania and Zimbabwe). Zimbabwe is the lowest ranking of the countries showing 'Increasing Improvement' but has been improving by +1.30 points on average per year in the last five years.

'Slowing Improvement' & 'Warning Signs': 9 countries

The long-term deterioration in the Safety & Rule of Law category remains a matter of concern, and attention still needs to be paid to some worrying trends. Whilst some recent improvements can be seen in countries showing long-term decline, nine of the 20 countries to have registered a positive ten-year trend are experiencing more recently a worrying negative trend.

Chad, Comoros, Guinea, Liberia and Sierra Leone, are registering 'Slowing Improvement', with an annual average rate of progression that is lower in the last five years than in the last ten.

More concerningly, Angola, Lesotho, Mauritius and Zambia are showing 'Warning Signs' by displaying a negative trend in the last five years, even though the trend over the last decade remains positive.

Mauritius, still the highest scoring country in Safety & Rule of Law (82.7), although improving at an average pace of +0.22 points per year during the past decade, has shown deterioration at an average pace of -0.15 points per year since 2012.

Angola, ranking a low 39^{th} on the continent with a score of 45.9 in 2016, registers an improvement of +2.1 at a pace of +0.23 points on average per year over the last decade, but its score in 2016 is the same as it was in 2012.

Zambia shows the largest decline of this group in the last five years, with an annual average trend of -0.65 in this period, threatening to reverse progress made earlier in the decade.

Rule of Law: a static 10-year trend masking a recent upturn

The African average score for Rule of Law has bounced back in the last five years, reversing decline seen earlier in the decade, to reach the same score in 2016 as it did a decade ago. The static trend over a decade in Rule of Law is reflected in Africa's trajectory in underlying Rule of Law indicators; half of the six that make up Rule of Law have improved, while half have deteriorated. Of the latter, two are showing signs of reversing continental decline.

Continental indicator performance

'Bouncing Back'

The increase in Transfers of Power in the last five years is driven by substantial gains registered by Egypt, Guinea and Madagascar (+66.7) as well as, to a lesser extent, by Nigeria and Senegal (+33.3), even if some countries still register substantial declines: Mozambique (-33.4), South Sudan and Burundi (-33.3). The continental average score for this indicator however remains low (38.3).

'Increasing Improvement'

Half the countries on the continent (27) register 'Increasing Improvement' in Judicial Independence with the largest improvement in the last five years seen in Guinea-Bissau (+24.9). Meanwhile, of the nine most deteriorated countries over the decade, six are declining at an even faster pace in the last five years.

Average continental progress in Judicial Process masks the fact that over a third (23) of countries have shown no change in score in the last five years. It is the impressive gains registered by previously low scoring countries – Burkina Faso, Chad and Zimbabwe (+37.5) – that increase the African average score.

Average Property Rights results are driven by 28 countries displaying 'Increasing Improvement' including Kenya and Senegal. Sixteen countries are still showing decline in the last five years however, Libya (-13.0) the largest of these.

'Increasing Deterioration'

While the majority of countries improve in the indicator Access to Justice, the continental average score registers decline due to the magnitude of declines over the last five years. Whilst less than half the continent (21 countries) display deteriorating scores, 19 of these are 'Increasing Deterioration'. The magnitude of recent declines in several countries drives down the continental average score in this measure. Burundi, Egypt, Kenya and Lesotho drop by more than -20.0 points in the last five years, Mauritania by -51.5.

Accountability: almost no progress

The African average score in Accountability (35.8 out of 100.0) is the lowest across all of the sub-categories in the IIAG. Barely any progress has been made in the last five years (+0.1) as the average African score recovers from deterioration between 2012-2014. The inconsistency of progress in Accountability is reflected in underlying Accountability indicators which show contrasting trends. All eight underlying Accountability indicators feature in the bottom half of the 100 indicators in the IIAG in 2016.

Continental indicator performance

'Increasing Deterioration'

Progress in Accountability is held back by a large deterioration in Corruption & Bureaucracy and to a lesser extent in Accountability of Public Officials. Both these indicators are among the 20 lowest scoring indicators of the 100 in the IIAG. Thirty-five countries have declining scores in Corruption & Bureaucracy over the last decade and for 28 of these the pace of decline has increased in the last five years. Algeria and Mauritania show the sharpest declines in this period (-38.1).

Accountability of Public Officials	36.7	-0.3	-0.03	-0.4	-0.10

'Warning Signs'

Though the African average score for Online Public Services remains low, over the last decade 41 countries improve their score in this measure. Sixteen of these however show decline in the last five years, presenting 'Warning Signs' for future progress. Eleven countries decline over a decade and all of these are deteriorating at an even quicker pace in the last five years.

'Bouncing Back' & 'Slowing Deterioration'

Despite continental decline in Diversion of Public Funds, Corruption Investigation and Corruption in Government & Public Officials over a decade, in the last five years the African average score for the former two indicators is back on the rise. Half the countries that have worsened scores in Diversion of Public Funds over the decade are showing signs of turning things around with improvements in the last five years.

'Increasing Improvement'

Driving the slight African average improvement in Accountability over the decade is progress in Access to Information (although this is one of Africa's ten lowest scoring indicators) and Public Sector Accountability & Transparency. Both of these progress even faster in the last five years. Average progress in the latter is driven by 'Increasing Improvement' in the last five years in both low (Central African Republic, +26.7) and high (Senegal, +14.7) scoring countries. However, there are still 22 countries displaying worsening scores in this measure.

Personal Safety: a slowing deterioration

Personal Safety remains Africa's most deteriorated sub-category over the last ten years (2007-2016). However, looking closer at the last five years (2012-2016), the negative trajectory appears to be slowing, with the annual average trend declining more than two times slower (-0.30) than in the ten-year period (-0.71).

Continental indicator performance

'Slowing Deterioration'

Deterioration in Social Unrest and mainly Safety of the Person over the decade has for the most part driven the decline of Personal Safety at the continental level. On average these are the second and sixth most deteriorated indicators of the entire IIAG over this period. However, decline in both has slowed over the last five years, more so for Safety of the Person in which a few countries (7) are even showing signs of reversing decline.

The slowing decline in Social Unrest is only marginal. Whilst countries like Tunisia, which deteriorated by more than -70.0 points in the first part of the last decade, show some improvements over the last five years, some of the countries to improve over a decade register decline in the last five years. Côte d'Ivoire for example, improved by +10.5 over the decade but has declined by -4.4 over the last five years, threatening to reverse progress made.

Safety of the Person	42.9	-11.9	-1.32	-1.7	-0.43

'Increasing Improvement'

Thirty-two countries show improving scores in Police Services over the last ten years, and 28 of these manage to improve at an even faster rate in the last five years. However, the African average score for this indicator remains low, and is Africa's twelfth worst scoring indicator of the 100 in the IIAG. The majority of countries score below 50.0 and six score 0.0 in 2016 (Central African Republic, Equatorial Guinea, Eritrea, Somalia, South Sudan and Sudan).

Police Services	34.3	+7.8	+0.87	+9.7	+2.43

'Increasing Deterioration'

Concerningly, continental average decline in Crime, Political Violence and Human Trafficking is worsening in the last five years. In the latter, Africa's fourth most deteriorated indicator over the last ten years and seventh worst scoring indicator, not a single country achieves a score of 100.0 in 2016. The majority (17) of the 26 countries that register worsening Human Trafficking scores over the decade show 'Increasing Deterioration' in the last five years. The trend in Political Violence is worrying. Whilst almost half the continent (25 countries) show improving scores, large declines in countries like Burundi and Egypt (both by more than -50.0) over the last five years result in average decline for this measure.

National Security: mounting concerns

Despite National Security being on average Africa's highest performing governance sub-category in the IIAG, it is the second most deteriorated in the last ten years (after Personal Safety) with a score drop of -3.7 score points at an average rate of -0.41 score points per year.

Decline over the decade in National Security performance is largely due to the last five years. In this period National Security has become the most deteriorated sub-category, having more than doubled the average annual decline of the decade to -0.95 points.

Continental indicator performance

'Increasing Deterioration'

Half of the indicators in this sub-category are 'Increasing Deterioration'. Government Involvement in Armed Conflict shows a large deterioration (-12.1) over the last decade, with the pace of decline quickening in the last five years. Thirty-one countries have a worse score than a decade ago. For the vast majority of these (28), decline over the last decade is solely due to falls in scores in the last five years. Ten years ago, in 2007, 43 countries scored 100.0 (out of 100.0) in Government Involvement in Armed Conflict. Five years ago, in 2012, this number was down to 36 and in 2016 this number was halved to only 18.

Three of the ten most deteriorated countries over the last five years are West African: Cameroon, Niger and Nigeria. Over half of this group also form part of the ten most declined countries in the indicator Internally Displaced People.

The African average score for Internally Displaced People declined marginally over the decade but displays 'Increasing Deterioration' over the last five years. However, this is solely due to the magnitude of the deteriorations seen in a minority of countries. In total, only 13 countries show worsening scores in Internally Displaced People since 2012 and the vast majority of the continent (42 countries) achieve a score over 90.0 points (out of 100.0) in 2016.

Africa's average score for Political Refugees has also declined at an accelerated pace in the last five years but again this is due to the magnitude of decline of a minority of countries. Burundi and South Sudan, still in crisis, drop by more than -70.0 points. Rwanda also falls by -37.3 points. Over the last five years the majority of countries either improve (21) or show no score change (13). All countries that register no change already score higher than 90.0 except Eritrea and Somalia (0.0). Liberia shows the largest improvement (+61.4) over the last decade and the last five years (+10.4).

'Slowing Deterioration' & 'Bouncing Back'

Meanwhile, the trend of decline for Africa's score in Violence by Non-state Actors is showing signs of slowing. Over the last five years the African average score has declined at an average annual pace of -1.20 points. This slowdown is driven by the fact that nine of the 28 countries declining over the decade manage to show positive trends in the last five years. However, the scope of decline in Burundi (-97.0) and South Sudan (-68.0) especially, but also Cameroon, Central African Republic, Libya and Sudan (all more than -20.0) continue to drive down the African average trend.

The indicator Domestic Armed Conflict, is the only indicator in National Security that has, on average, shown a positive trend in the last five years. The African average score for Domestic Armed Conflict has declined by -4.8 over the last decade, yet is 'Bouncing Back' with an improvement of +0.48 points per year on average in the last five years, driven by improvements in Guinea-Bissau (+50.0) and others including Côte d'Ivoire, Kenya and Madagascar (+25.0).

'Warning Signs'

Since 2007, all constituent indicators in National Security have shown continental average deterioration except for Cross-border Tensions (+6.4). Now, worryingly, in the last five years, this indicator displays 'Warning Signs', becoming the second largest deteriorating indicator in National Security in the last five years. A large majority of countries (37) show no change in the last five years in this measure, only five have shown improvement and large declines in Cameroon, Gambia, Niger, (all -50.0) and Libya (-62.5) pull down the continental result.

Widespread deterioration at country level

A majority of countries on the continent show decline in National Security over a decade.

The quickening pace of decline of the African average score is due to the fact that of the 31 countries to decline over the last ten years, just over half (16) are 'Increasing Deterioration' in the last five years. All of these decline at more than double the pace except for Egypt.

Burundi is the most deteriorated country over the decade (-34.7) as well as over the last five years (-38.7). The country shows the largest annual average decline on the continent in the last five years (-9.68), almost tripling its annual pace of deterioration compared with the decade's (annual average decline of -3.86).

On top of that, 12 of 19 countries registering a positive ten-year trend are showing concerning recent trends: six register 'Slowing Improvement' and six are showing 'Warning Signs'.

Terrorism in Africa: a growing challenge for security

The Global Terrorism Index¹ (GTI) measures the total number of terrorist incidents, fatalities and injuries and of property damaged by a terrorist incident in a given year. The GTI assesses 50 African countries.

The ten African countries with the highest terrorism levels on the GTI (in order of highest first) are Nigeria, Somalia, Egypt, Libya, Cameroon, Niger, Democratic Republic of Congo, Sudan, Kenya and Central African Republic.

In 2015, the latest data year for the GTI, National Security and the GTI show a correlation coefficient of -0.80, pointing to a strong correlation between low National Security levels and high terrorism levels.²

Seven of the ten lowest scoring countries in National Security in 2015 (Cameroon, Central African Republic, Democratic Republic of Congo, Libya, Nigeria, Somalia, Sudan) also feature in the ten African countries with the highest terrorism levels on the GTI.

At the indicator level, the IIAG scores in Government Involvement in Armed Conflict (r=-0.67) and in Domestic Armed Conflict (r=-0.82) are also strongly correlated with the GTI results.

GTI (2015)

¹The Global Terrorism Index ranks 163 countries based on four indicators. The GTI score for a country in a given year is based on a unique scoring system to account for the relative impact of incidents in the year. The four factors counted in each country's yearly score are (i) total number of terrorist incidents in a given year, (ii) total number of fatalities caused by terrorists in a given year, (iii) total number of injuries caused by terrorists in a given year, (iv) a measure of the total property damage from terrorist incidents in a given year.

10-year & 5-year annual average trends

Countries ordered by size of the 10-year trend.

Participation & Human Rights: stronger progress on average, masking some concerning recent trends

The Participation & Human Rights category in 2016 displays its highest average continental score (49.4 out of 100.0) since the first data year of the IIAG (2000), a score that was first reached in 2015.

Having risen at an annual average rate of +0.24 score points over the last decade, which represents the second largest IIAG governance category improvement over this period, the African average improvement for Participation & Human Rights is marginally picking up speed in the last five years, with an average progress of +0.25 points per year. Participation & Human Rights is the only governance category in the IIAG to be registering 'Increasing Improvement' over the last five years.

Over the decade, progress has been mostly bolstered by Gender (average increase of +0.43 per year), followed by Participation (average increase of +0.18 per year) and Rights (average increase of +0.11 per year).

However, over the last five years, the average annual trend appears to be slowing down in Gender and marginally so in Rights. It is the quickening average improvement in Participation that is driving the 'Increasing Improvement' at category level.

Although Gender still shows the largest improvement in Participation & Human Rights over the last five years, reaching its highest average score (55.1) in 2016, it also registers the biggest slowdown over the last five years.

Over the last ten years, 35 countries improved their Participation & Human Rights score, while 18 countries registered a decline. In the latter half of the decade although fewer countries (32) improved their score, the large improvements registered by countries such as Madagascar (+11.0) and Tunisia (+10.9) contribute to the African average progress of +1.0 over this period.

'Increasing Improvement': 17 countries

Seventeen countries are 'Increasing Improvement', contributing to the uptick in improvement seen at category level, the largest number of countries showing this trend of all four governance categories in the IIAG.

Madagascar registers the largest gains in the last five years. Having reached its worst ever score in 2012, it has since achieved year-on-year improvement at an impressive average rate of +2.75 points per year, thus climbing ten rank places (to 15th position) in five years.

Sitting at different rungs in the rankings table, Seychelles (8^{th}), Sierra Leone (14^{th}), Algeria and Zimbabwe (tied 34^{th}), and Somalia (54^{th}) are the only five countries that are 'Increasing Improvement' in Participation & Human Rights and in all three constituent sub-categories.

Namibia is the highest-ranking country (3rd) in Participation & Human Rights to show 'Increasing Improvement'. Along with Madagascar, Kenya, Guinea-Bissau, Morocco and Cameroon, it has more than doubled its annual average pace of improvement in the last five years as compared to the rate registered over the decade.

'Slowing Improvement' & 'Warning Signs': 18 countries

Ten countries — Tunisia, Malawi, Uganda, Liberia, Nigeria, Togo, Rwanda, Guinea, Gabon and Congo — register 'Slowing Improvement'. Guinea is the only country of this group in which progress has slowed by more than half in the last five years, compared to its rate of improvement over ten.

Tunisia is the highest ranked country of this group (7^{th}). Having showed the largest country improvement over ten years in Participation & Human Rights (at an annual average speed of +3.19 points per year), the country appears to lose some momentum over the last five years with a reduced annual average speed of +2.73 points per year. It is still however the second most improved country over the last five years.

Eight countries are showing 'Warning Signs', threatening to reverse the progress they have made over the decade, displaying a negative trend in the last five years, despite an overall positive trend over the last decade. Half of these countries already rank in the bottom ten on the continent in Participation & Human Rights.

Of these, Libya is the only country that registers deterioration in all three sub-categories in the most recent five years.

'Increasing Deterioration': 10 countries

Three countries in the bottom ten in Participation & Human Rights are 'Increasing Deterioration': Democratic Republic of Congo, Swaziland and Eritrea.

Of these, Swaziland's pace of deterioration has more than doubled. Swaziland, from an already low base, drops to its lowest ever score in Participation & Human Rights in 2016

(24.6), and in two constituent sub-categories (Participation, 15.1, first reached in 2014, and Gender, 35.1).

Worryingly, three of the top ten scoring countries in Participation & Human Rights also feature in this group. Cabo Verde and Ghana's pace of deterioration has more than tripled, and Botswana also shows 'Increasing Deterioration'.

Participation: recently picking up pace, but some warning signs

Unlike the other sub-categories in Participation & Human Rights, Africa's average score in Participation is improving faster in recent years than the last decade. Participation is one of only two sub-categories out of the 14 in the IIAG to display 'Increasing Improvement' over the last five years - along with Infrastructure - with an annual average rate of +0.28 points per year in the last five years.

This overall positive story however masks concerning results in individual countries and hides disparities between country performances. Participation has the second largest range in 2016 (85.5 points between the highest and lowest scoring countries) out of the 14 IIAG sub-categories (after Rule of Law).

Continental indicator performance

'Increasing Improvement'

The quicker pace of progress at sub-category level in recent years is mainly driven by 'Increasing Improvement' in the indicator Free & Fair Elections - the sole indicator to do so - by an annual average rate of +1.43, more than double its long-term pace. A third of the continent (18 countries) improve their score in this indicator by more than +10.0 points over a decade, Tunisia registering the largest gains (+69.7). In the last five years again a third of the continent improves by more than +10.0 points even if

'Warning Signs'

'Warning Signs' appear in Political Participation which is declining in recent years despite progress over the decade. Striking individual country performance is evident. While Tunisia registers the largest gains over the decade, improving at a rate of +7.84 points per year, its pace of growth slows by more than half over the last five years (+3.20 per year). Libya

'Increasing Deterioration'

Civil Society Participation decline has quickened its pace in the last five years by fourfold, from an annual average decline of -0.07 over the last decade to -0.28 over the last five years. Over half the continent (29 countries) decline over the decade, and for 21 of these the speed of decline in recent years is worsening. Twenty-four countries do show progress over the

'Slowing Improvement'

The progress in Election Monitoring Agencies is slowing down in recent years, as a result of half the continent (27 countries) declining since 2012. High scoring countries show wavering signs, as Cabo Verde's (74.2 out of 100.0) recent declines threaten to reverse long-term improvement, and Mauritius' (73.8) pace of decline quickens more than twofold in recent years. The African annual average progress is restrained to +0.08 in recent years the composition of countries changes, with Gambia registering the largest gains (+41.8). Substantial improvements in these countries increase the African average score and outweigh some large declines in countries such as Niger (-29.0 in the last five years).

'Bouncing Back'

The continental score for Legitimacy of Political Process (+0.2) is a result of several countries showing signs of stopping the decline registered over the decade. A handful of countries (Côte d'Ivoire, Guinea, Madagascar, Nigeria and Tunisia) are showing rapid improvements in the last five years, but many countries (18) display no change at all over a decade and many of these (10) score a low 11.0 out of 100.0. Only seven countries increase their scores since 2012, compared to eight since 2007. On the other hand, fewer countries (14) decline in recent years compared to 17 over the decade.

Mixed country results

The faster sub-category level progress in the latter part of the decade is a result of 33 countries improving their Participation scores in this period.

In the most recent five years, Madagascar is 'Bouncing Back' from its decade-long negative trajectory, registering the largest improvement on the continent and climbing 18 rank places from 34th to the 16th. Madagascar is also the largest improver in Legitimacy of Political Process (+55.6), Civil Society Participation (+25.5) and Political Participation (+16.8), and the third largest improver in Free & Fair Elections (+34.0) since 2012.

Although low ranking, Djibouti - unlike any other African country – displays 'Increasing Improvement' at the sub-category level and in every available underlying indicator. This progress is notable as the annual average change of each indicator has more than doubled in the last five years – resulting in the eighth largest improvement and a climb of 12 rank places from 46th in 2012 to 34th in 2016.

However, only six of the top ten improvers over the last decade maintain top ten improver status in the last five years. Tunisia, having registered the largest gains over the decade (+57.8) is slowing in recent years. The country displays 'Slowing Improvement' in all but one indicator, Legitimacy of Political Process, where it exhibits 'Increasing Improvement'. Ranked 3rd in 2016, Tunisia falls from the most improved country with an annual rate of +6.42 points per year over the past decade to the third most improved in the latter part of the decade at almost half the growth rate (+3.93).

Of the 30 countries that register improvement over the decade, 11 are on a concerning path; with five 'Slowing Improvement' and six exhibiting 'Warning Signs'.

Concerningly, of the 23 countries that are deteriorating since 2007, more than half (12) show 'Increasing Deterioration'. Of these 12 countries, Burundi, Chad, Democratic Republic of Congo and Swaziland are in the bottom ten ranking countries in 2016.

Particularly concerning are Burundi and Democratic Republic of Congo as their performances weaken in every single underlying indicator both over the decade and in the last five years. Burundi (+27.9) declines the most over the last ten years and accelerates its pace of decline in recent years, along with 11 other countries. Burundi's score worsens every single year over the last decade.

Rights: losing momentum, while still low-scoring

Rights is the lowest scoring subcategory (43.4 out of 100.0), on average, in Participation & Human Rights. Recovering from a drop in score in 2014, Rights registers its highest sub-category score in 2015 and 2016. In the recent five years, Rights registers a very slight slowdown in progress with an annual average rate of +0.10 compared to +0.11 over the decade.

Continental indicator performance

'Increasing Deterioration'

The further weakening of Freedom of Association & Assembly in the last five years is driven by 'Increasing Deterioration' in 23 countries, 15 of which decline by more than -10.0 points. Comoros registers the largest declines at the fastest pace in both time periods.

In Freedom of Expression, over half of the countries on the continent (29) register a deterioration over a decade that worsens in the last five years. Burundi, which is among the ten lowest scoring countries in 2016, registers the largest decline in both time periods. Four countries display signs of reversing their decade positive performance (Guinea, Libya, Senegal and Zimbabwe). Libya, the second largest improver over the decade has become one of the 20 most deteriorated countries over the last five years.

In Civil Liberties, decline has slowed in the last five years. The largest faller of the decade, Gambia (-33.3) shows signs of halting its decline along with eight other countries. While some countries are showing signs of 'Bouncing Back' with better trends over the last five years, there are still 12 countries showing increasing decline in Civil Liberties, including Angola,

Gender: progress is faltering

The continental average score for Gender (55.1 out of 100.0) still makes it the highest scoring sub-category in Participation & Human Rights in 2016. Since the first year of the IIAG timeseries (2000) Gender score, on average, has gone from strength-to-strength, improving each year and reaching its peak in 2016. Looking at the recent trend in the last five years, Gender is still showing the largest improvement, yet progress looks to be slowing. Five out of eight underlying indicators are holding up further progress at sub-category level.

Continental indicator performance

'Increasing Improvement'

In Women's Political Empowerment, just over half the continent (28 countries) increase their pace of progress over the last five years, with the largest improvement seen in Algeria (+32.7). However, this indicator-level progress masks some concerning trends among the ten countries declining over a decade, as nine of these show increasing decline in the last five years, Egypt (-15.3) being the largest of these.

In Women's Labour Force Participation 10 countries show signs of reversing a decade decline, which along with seven countries that register 'Increasing Improvement' drive the average indicator-level improvement.

Workplace Gender Equality registers the third largest indicator-level improvement in the IIAG since 2012, driven by 20 countries that display 'Increasing Improvement'. However, this masks the fact that almost half of the continent (26 countries) show no change over the two time-periods.

Africa (average scores)	2016 Score	Trend 2007-2016	Annual average trend	Trend 2012-2016	Annual average trend

Women's Labour Force Participation	60.3	+1.2	+0.13	+0.7	+0.18

'Slowing Improvement'

Women's Political Participation progress is slowing down, driven by declines in almost half the continent (26 countries) in recent years. Declines of more than -10.0 points in Benin, Cabo Verde, Central African Republic, Comoros, Lesotho, Malawi, Nigeria and Seychelles drive down the African average. Eight countries, including Tanzania and Senegal, though still improving over the decade register decline in the last five years, contributing to the average slowing progress.

In Gender Balance in Education, 38 countries manage to improve scores over the decade. However, eight of these; Ethiopia, Kenya, Malawi, Mauritius, Rwanda, Seychelles, Zambia and Zimbabwe decline in the last five years, contributing the 'Slowing Improvement' of the African average score.

'Warning Signs'

Despite Laws on Violence against Women being on average the eighth largest improver of all indicators in the IIAG over the past ten years, Africa's score has declined in the last five. While over the decade 28 countries improve, the same number of countries decline in the recent five years. 'Warning Signs' emerge in 18 countries, which despite improving over ten years have declined in the last five.

'Increasing Deterioration'

Gender Equality and Women in the Judiciary register an overall decline over the decade which worsens over the last five years. In the former, large and increasing declines in Guinea-Bissau, Eritrea, Mauritania and Mali outweigh the notable gains made in countries like Zimbabwe and Rwanda.

In Women in the Judiciary, polarising performance is evident with 16 countries displaying 'Increasing Deterioration' and nine countries displaying 'Increasing Improvement', while over half of the continent (28 countries) remains static. Sudan displays a stand out performance, receiving the best possible score of 100.0 in 2016 having strengthened its scores at the fastest rate in both time periods.

Does a change in leadership result in improved governance?

The majority of countries where leadership has changed show strengthened Overall Governance scores. However some countries show concerning trends.

Countries that have seen a change in leader between 2007 to 2016.

Over the past decade, 33 African countries have seen a change of leadership. The majority of these (20) score higher than the continental average score in 2016 for Overall Governance (50.8). Eight out of the top ten scoring countries in 2016 have changed leadership since 2007. Conversely, of the ten lowest scoring countries at the Overall Governance level, only three have had a change in leadership over the past decade: Central African Republic, Libya and Somalia.

Twenty-three countries that have had a change of leadership since 2007 (out of 33), have seen advances in Overall Governance during this period. Further, of the 18 countries on the continent that have shown 'Increasing Improvement' over the last five years at the Overall Governance level, the majority (ten countries) have had a change of leadership since 2007: Côte d'Ivoire, Egypt, Guinea-Bissau, Kenya, Namibia, Nigeria, Senegal, Somalia, Tanzania and Tunisia. Amongst these are five of the most improved countries on the continent since 2012: Côte d'Ivoire (+8.2), Kenya (+4.9), Namibia (+4.0), Tunisia (+3.6) and Nigeria (+3.3).

All three countries that are 'Bouncing Back' (showing a positive trend in the last five years despite still registering decline over the last ten) at the Overall Governance level have seen a change of leadership over the past decade.

However, five out of the ten countries on the continent showing 'Warning Signs' (decline in the last five years despite improvement over ten) have seen a change in leadership: Mauritius, Cabo Verde, Zambia, Sierra Leone and Malawi.

Out of the eight countries on the continent that have shown 'Increasing Deterioration', countries that have changed leaders dominate this list (seven out of eight): Botswana, Central African Republic, Gambia, Ghana, Libya, Mauritania and Mozambique. Although in Gambia and Ghana, change has been too recent to fully evaluate results, whilst Central African Republic and Libya remain in deep crises.

Three countries whose leaders became Ibrahim Prize laureates, President Festus Mogae from Botswana (2008), President Pedro De Verona Rodrigues Pires from Cabo Verde (2011) and President Joaquim Alberto Chissano from Mozambique (2007), now show wavering signs in their Overall Governance performance. This signals the need for both quality leadership and good governance to secure sustained progress.

Protection against Discrimination: a new indicator in the IIAG

For the first time since its inception, the IIAG includes a measure capturing the extent to which governments protect citizens and minorities against discrimination. This new indicator, Protection against Discrimination, sits in the sub-category Rights, and aims to reinforce the human rights component of this sub-category.

Protection against Discrimination is composed of two different variables compiled using data from Global Integrity's Africa Integrity Indicators (AII), Protection against Ethnic Discrimination and Protection against Religious Discrimination. Both variables measure whether governments protect minorities from discrimination, including the existence of official mechanisms that receive and investigate complaints of discrimination, of programmes to reduce and combat discrimination, and whether these are accessible by minority groups.

The data are available from source from 2013 to 2016. Registering an average continental score of 22.0 out of 100.0 points in 2016, Protection against Discrimination is the lowest scoring indicator in Participation & Human Rights and the fifth lowest of the 100 indicators in the IIAG. However, the indicator has shown the fourth largest improvement (+7.4) in Participation & Human Rights since 2013.

Mauritius and South Africa are the two highest scoring countries in Protection against Discrimination, both registering 75.0 points in 2016. They are also the only two countries registering a score higher than 50.0. Conversely, 19 countries obtain a score of 0.0 in 2016. Of these, five have deteriorated to that score in the past five years: Burundi, Congo, Gabon, Guinea and Guinea-Bissau.

Of the two sub-indicators, the average continental score in Protection against Ethnic Discrimination is slightly lower (20.4) than in Protection against Religious Discrimination (23.6).

The Mo Ibrahim Foundation looks forward to the strengthening and extension of data measuring the whole spectrum of human rights for future inclusion in the IIAG.

10-year & 5-year annual average trends

Countries ordered by size of the 10-year trend.

Sustainable Economic Opportunity: progress has slowed on average over the last five years, but is picking up pace again very recently

The African average score for Sustainable Economic Opportunity has improved by +1.3 score points over the past ten years, increasing from 43.8 (out of 100.0) in 2007 to 45.1 in 2016. However, Africa's average score in 2016 remains slightly lower that its 2010 peak of 45.3.

Although over the last decade, the continent has improved at an annual average rate of +0.14 points in the last five years, the pace has somewhat slackened, with improvement falling to an annual pace of +0.10. The slower progress over the last five years is mainly due to a drop in score between 2012 and 2014. Progress appears to be back on track since 2014.

Over the decade, the continental improvement has been largely driven by Infrastructure (at an annual average trend of +0.61) and, to a lesser extent, Rural Sector (at an annual average trend of +0.23). Public Management and Business Environment have held back the continental average progress, declining at average annual rates of -0.19 and -0.07, respectively.

Over the past five years, the 'Slowing Improvement' in Sustainable Economic Opportunity appears mostly due to concerning trends in Rural Sector and Business Environment. Rural Sector displays 'Warning Signs', with an average yearly decline of -0.13 points in the last five years, while Business Environment is 'Increasing Deterioration', at an average yearly rate of -0.10 in the last five years compared to -0.07 in the longer term.

Meanwhile, positively, Infrastructure displays 'Increasing Improvement', at an average annual rate that is slightly larger (+0.65) than over the decade, and Public Management registers 'Slowing Deterioration' with an annual average trend of -0.08, less than half the pace of decline seen over the decade.

Over the past ten years, 38 countries have improved their score for Sustainable Economic Opportunity, while 15 countries have deteriorated. However, in the last five-year period only 29 countries were able to register improvement, despite more countries (35) showing gains since 2014, mirroring the African average improvement since then.

	10-year trend (2007-2016)	5-year trend (2012-2016)
Countries with an improved score	38	29
Countries with a deteriorated score	15	23
Countries with no score change	0	2
	53 African countries	54 African countries, including South Sudan

Of the 38 countries that improved over the past ten years, only 16 managed to accelerate their pace of improvement in the past five. The other 22 are either 'Slowing Improvement' (10) or showing 'Warning Signs' (12).

'Increasing Improvement': 16 countries

In the group of countries showing 'Increasing Improvement' over the last five years, Morocco and Zimbabwe are both picking up speed at an impressive rate of more than +2.00 points per year on average, although they achieve vastly different scores. Zimbabwe scores 37.2, below the African average and ranking 41st, whilst Morocco ranks 2nd with a score of 68.2. Morocco, Namibia (7th) and Egypt (10th) are in fact the only top ten performing countries to be increasing their rate of improvement over the past five years.

'Bouncing Back' & 'Slowing Deterioration': 7 countries

Three out of the 15 countries with a deteriorated score over the last ten years have managed to display a positive trend over the last five years: Tanzania, Guinea and Eritrea.

Tanzania exhibits a robust performance over the recent five-year period. Within an average annual deterioration over the last ten years of -0.14, the magnitude of Tanzania's positive five-year average annual trend is more than six times larger (+0.85) than that of the decade.

Of the 12 countries that have experienced a decline both during the past ten and five years, four have also managed to slow their pace of deterioration over the past five: Algeria, Madagascar, South Africa and Tunisia.

'Slowing Improvement' & 'Warning Signs': 22 countries

Rather concerning is the fact that almost half of the ten highest scoring countries in Sustainable Economic Opportunity are registering 'Slowing Improvement': Mauritius (1st), Rwanda (3rd), Seychelles (5th) and Cabo Verde (8th). Rwanda, the fourth largest improver over the past ten years (an average annual rate of +1.20), slows down to nearly half that rate over the past five years (+0.68).

Meanwhile, despite maintaining an improved performance over the last decade, 12 countries display 'Warning Signs', showing a decline in the latest five years. This group includes Angola, one of Africa's ten largest economies in terms of Gross Domestic Product (GDP). The country has marginally increased its Sustainable Economic Opportunity score over the last decade but in the last five years has declined by -0.83 points per year on average, almost completely reversing any gains made earlier in the past decade.

'Increasing Deterioration': 8 countries

More worrying still, is the fact that eight of the countries to show decline over the last decade have increased their annual pace of deterioration even further over the last five years: Botswana, Ethiopia, Ghana, Lesotho, Libya, Malawi, Mauritania and Sierra Leone.

Ethiopia, another of Africa's ten largest economies in terms of GDP, shows the tenth largest decline on the continent in Sustainable Economic Opportunity in the last five years. Ethiopia's score showed early gains in the first part of this period yet has declined to such an extent in recent years that its annual average trend over the last five years is -0.68.

Public Management: decline is slowing

Albeit still declining, the African average score for Public Management has more than halved its pace of deterioration over the past five years. This slowing deterioration is reflected in Africa's trajectory in the Public Management indicators. Over the last five years, three out of the nine underlying indicators have started to bounce back, one has slowed its deterioration and three more have increased their pace of improvement.

Continental indicator performance

'Bouncing Back' & 'Slowing Deterioration'

While registering decline over the decade, the three indicators Civil Registration, Public Administration and Diversification all manage to improve at African average level over the past five years. Despite 'Bouncing Back', Diversification remains Africa's lowest scoring indicator of the 100 in the IIAG. In the case of Civil Registration, improvement has been driven by five countries: Burundi, Ghana, Guinea, Mali and Togo. All other countries have either deteriorated (three countries) or shown no score change (46 countries) in the five-year period.

On the other hand, although Budget Balance has slowed its deterioration, 29 countries still register a deteriorating score in the most recent period.

'Increasing Improvement'

Governmental Statistical Capacity, Budget Management and Transparency of State-owned Companies have all managed to quicken their pace of improvement over the last five years, thus contributing to the slowing deterioration of Public Management on the continent over the past five years. Transparency of State-owned Companies has been the most improved indicator in Public Management in the five-year period (+1.9). Despite this, the African average score for this indicator is still the second lowest in the IIAG in 2016 (with a score of 14.4 out of 100.0). Only 11 countries have shown a positive trend in the recent period, while 35 countries have experienced no score change. Of those 35 countries, 26 scored 0.0 in 2016.

'Slowing Improvement' & 'Increasing Deterioration'

A slowing positive trend for Revenue Mobilisation and increasing decline in Fiscal Policy prevent further progress in Public Management. The Fiscal Policy trend is concerning, with 11 countries having increased their deterioration in the five-year period, the worst being Nigeria (-43.6), Gambia (-38.0) and Mozambique (-32.6).

Business Environment: quickening deterioration over the last five years but recent signs of recovery

The African average for Business Environment registers decline in both time periods, with an increasing pace of deterioration over the past five years (at an annual average rate of -0.10 compared to -0.07 over the decade). Over the last five years, two out of the seven underlying indicators of this sub-category have increased their deterioration and one has shown 'Warning Signs', threatening to reverse a sizeable ten-year positive trend.

Continental indicator performance

'Increasing Deterioration'

Business Environment accelerates its pace of decline over the past five years, driven by the negative trajectories of Business Bureaucracy & Red Tape and Soundness of Banks. Particularly, Soundness of Banks has been the most deteriorated indicator in the entire IIAG both over the last ten and five years (at an annual average rate of -3.40 compared to -2.57 in the ten-year period).

Africa (average scores)	2016 Score	Trend 2007-2016	Annual average trend	Trend 2012-2016	Annual average trend

'Warning Signs'

Despite keeping a positive trajectory over the past ten years, Customs Procedures registers a deterioration over the past five, hence contributing to the 'Increasing Deterioration' of Business Environment. While only ten countries have deteriorated in Customs Procedures over the decade, the number of countries showing a deterioration went up to 21 in the five-year period. Of the 30 countries improving over the decade, 11 show 'Warning Signs', threatening to reverse their positive trajectories over the decade. All of the ten countries deteriorating over the decade have increased their pace of deterioration.

Thirty-eight countries improve their Investment Climate scores over the last decade and 21 of these even increase their rate of improvement in the last five years.

Meanwhile, Competition shows signs of reversing its ten-year negative trajectory.

Infrastructure: progress but still low scoring

Despite 'Increasing Improvement' over the past five years, Infrastructure still only scores 41.3 (out of 100.0) in 2016, making it the second lowest scoring sub-category in the IIAG, only ahead of Accountability. Although the majority of Infrastructure indicators show positive trends, they come from low bases.

Continental indicator performance

'Increasing Improvement'

The increase in the average score for Transport Infrastructure in both time periods has contributed to the positive trajectory at the sub-category level. Of the 35 countries that have experienced an improvement in the ten-year period, 21 have managed to increase their pace of progress over the past five years. Moreover, two countries (Gabon and Democratic Republic of Congo) have shown signs of 'Bouncing Back', registering a five-year positive trend after a ten-year negative trajectory.

'Bouncing Back'

The improvement in Water & Sanitation Services over the past five years may be an early sign of Africa reversing its ten-year negative trend in this measure, and has contributed to the positive trajectory of Infrastructure in the most recent period. Despite this, the average score for Water & Sanitation Services in 2016 (40.9) is still lower than its 2007 score (43.2). Of the 33 countries for which trends are available for this indicator less than half improve over a decade. Of the 16 countries that have shown a positive trajectory, 14 have increased their pace of improvement in the five-year period, one has slowed its improvement (Kenya) and one displays 'Warning Signs' (Zambia).

'Slowing Improvement' & 'Increasing Deterioration'

Further progress has been prevented by the recent trajectories of Digital & IT Infrastructure, Access to Improved Water and, mostly, Electricity Infrastructure. While the first two have slowed their improvement in the five-year period, the latter has increased its deterioration.

Of the 50 countries experiencing an improvement in Digital & IT Infrastructure over the decade, 32 have slowed their improvement and four (Burundi, Central African Republic, Chad, Somalia) exhibit 'Warning Signs' over the last five years.

Electricity Infrastructure is on average registering increasing decline in the most recent period. However, of the 23 countries managing improvement over the decade, 20 have accelerated their pace of improvement over the last five years.

Rural Sector: concerning warning signs

Despite being the highest scoring sub-category in Sustainable Economic Opportunity in 2016, Rural Sector registers deterioration over the past five years (at an annual average rate of -0.13), showing signs of reversing the positive trend over the past ten years (at an annual average rate of +0.23).

At country level, the number of countries with an improved score is considerably smaller in the latter period (21 over the past five years compared to 31 over the past ten).

Of the 31 countries progressing over the decade, only seven manage to accelerate their pace of improvement over the last five years. Eight countries have slowed improvement and 16 exhibit 'Warning Signs', registering a decline that threatens to reverse their ten-year positive trajectory. Of the 21 countries experiencing a decline over the ten years, nearly half (ten) have increased their deterioration in the latter period.

Continental indicator performance

'Increasing Deterioration'

At the continental level, Agricultural Policy Costs and Gender Balance in Rural Decision-making are the main drivers of deterioration of the Rural Sector sub-category. In the case of Agricultural Policy Costs, which assesses the nature of a country's agricultural policy (ranging from excessively burdensome for the economy to balancing the interest of taxpayers, consumers and producers), the pace of deterioration has nearly doubled (at an annual average rate of -1.43 in the five-year period compared to -0.81 over the decade). Half the continent (27 countries) have experienced a deterioration in this indicator in the past decade. Over the past five years, this number has gone up to 30.

Five countries feature in the ten most deteriorated countries both over ten and five years (Burundi, Gabon, Libya, Sierra Leone, Zambia). For all five the pace of deterioration has increased in the five-year period.

'Slowing Improvement' & 'Warning Signs'

Albeit still displaying trajectories on the rise, Africa's average scores for Rural Land & Water, Agricultural Support System and Engagement with Rural Organisations have slowed their improvement over the past five years. The difference is starker in the case of Engagement with Rural Organisations, which captures the extent to which the rural poor can organise for collective action and engage in dialogue with the government. Its five-year annual average improvement has decreased six-fold compared to the one registered over the decade. While the majority of countries (40) have experienced an improvement in the ten-year period, only 17 countries do so over the past five years. Thirteen countries experienced declines in the five-year period compared to ten over the decade. Among those, South Sudan (-21.8), Central African Republic (-20.0) and Democratic Republic of Congo (-11.4) have experienced the largest declines over the last five years.

Further decline in Rural Sector has only been held back by the performance of Rural Business Climate and Rural Accountability & Transparency. Both indicators have increased improvement over the past five years.

Of the 27 countries showing an improvement over the decade in Rural Accountability & Transparency, which assesses how accountable and transparent the government is regarding its use of public funds for the rural poor, eight have increased improvement and 16 have shown 'Warning Signs' during the last five years, including 11 with no score change. Moreover, seven countries are 'Bouncing Back' in the latter period after registering declines or no change over the decade. Although Guinea and management of resources takes place, has also contributed to the trend at the sub-category level. Even though the indicator has, on average, experienced an improvement during the last ten years, it has shown a decline during the last five, threatening to reverse the gains previously made. After reaching its highest ever score in 2009 (56.5 out of 100.0), the African average for Rural Development Resources is only 52.9 in 2016, slightly above its 2007 score (52.2). The fifth most deteriorated country over the decade, Sudan (-19.8) is the seventh most improved country over the past five years (+15.7).

Is the "Africa Rising" narrative an illusion?

Since 2014 Africa's economic performance has weakened, leading to increased criticism of the so-called "Africa Rising" narrative, namely the expectation of an unprecedented growth across sub-Saharan Africa starting from the early 2000s¹.

During the period 2000-2014, sub-Saharan Africa's Gross Domestic Product (GDP) was growing at a fast pace (at an annual average growth rate of 5.2%)². In 2004, the peak year, sub-Saharan Africa's GDP growth rate reached 11.7%.

In recent years, however, the sub-continent's growth has slowed down considerably (the annual average growth rate was 2.1% in the period 2015-2016). This has happened alongside a sizeable commodity price decline (oil, gold, copper etc.). The fall in oil prices has been particularly dramatic, with the price per barrel halved from $105 in January 2013 to $53 in December 2016³.

However, if the growth slowdown has been severe for three of the continent's largest economies (Angola, Nigeria and South Africa), when looking at individual African countries the picture is more diverse, suggesting that it may be too soon for the "African Rising" narrative to be deemed dead. For many secondtier economies, such as Côte d'Ivoire, Kenya, Rwanda, Senegal and Togo, recent economic performance has been solid enough to tell a very positive story.

Country	Annual Average GDP growth 2000-2014 (%)	Annual Average GDP growth 2015-2016 (%)
Angola	7.9	1.5
Nigeria	7.9	0.6
South Africa	3.2	0.8

Country	Annual Average GDP growth 2000-2014 (%)	Annual Average GDP growth 2015-2016 (%)
Côte d'Ivoire	2.2	9.0
Kenya	4.4	5.8
Rwanda	8.0	7.4
Senegal	3.9	6.6
Togo	2.7	5.1

Such diversity in economic trajectories is well reflected in the countries' scores in the IIAG category Sustainable Economic Opportunity. While Angola, accounting for 4.1% of the total African GDP in 2016, has displayed 'Warning Signs' over the past five years (at an annual average rate of -0.83 compared to +0.11 over the decade), South Africa, accounting for 13.6% of the total African GDP, has decreased its pace of deterioration (at an annual average rate of -0.03 compared to -0.08 over the decade). Rwanda and Senegal, accounting for only 1.1% of the total African GDP in 2016, present a decreasing pace of improvement in the five-year period (at annual average rates of +0.68 and +0.15 compared to +1.20 and +0.41 over the past ten years). Meanwhile, Côte d'Ivoire, Kenya, Nigeria and Togo, accounting for almost a quarter (23.7%) of the total African GDP in 2016, manage to accelerate their improvement in the most recent years (at annual average rates of +1.98, +1.03, +0.53 and +1.90 respectively) as opposed to their ten-year trend (at annual average rates of +0.99, +0.68, +0.46 and +1.24 respectively). These different paths show that there is not one single story when it comes to African development.

¹The term "Africa Rising" was mostly referred to when discussing the high growth rates of sub-Saharan African countries from the early 2000s to the end of the commodity super cycle in 2014. Only the GDP growth rate of sub-Saharan Africa is mentioned because the World Bank does not provide a GDP growth average for North Africa. It only provides one for North Africa and the Middle East altogether.

² GDP growth rates are taken from "GDP growth (annual %)" from the World Development Indicators (https://data.worldbank.org/indicator/NY.GDP.MKTP.KD.ZG).

³ Oil price data are sourced from International Monetary Fund (IMF) Primary Commodity Prices, Monthly Data. Commodity name: POILAPSP (Simple average of three crude oil spot prices: Dated Brent, West Texas Intermediate and the Dubai Fateh).

Civil registration: a key tool for public policies, a key governance measure

"Less than one in five known births occurs in a country with a complete birth registration system. In Africa, 87% of deaths occur in countries without a complete death registration system"

- From 'Strength in Numbers: Africa's Data Revolution' - Mo Ibrahim Foundation, 2016 Report

The indicator Civil Registration is included in the IIAG for the first time in 2017. It consists of two variables drawn from Global Integrity's Africa Integrity Indicators (AII): Birth Registration and Death Registration. This clustered indicator sits within the Public Management sub-category.

Civil Registration assesses the existence of a functioning birth and death registration system and the ability of citizens to obtain birth and death certificates in a reasonable period of time and at no charge. The civil registry is key across various sectors of government, including participation, human rights, access to education and health.

The data for the two Civil Registration variables are available from source from 2013 to 2016. The African average score for Civil Registration is 59.7 (out of 100.0) in 2016, the second highest indicator score in the Public Management sub-category.

However, this average covers a wide range of results. In 2016, North Africa has the highest performance in this indicator, with an average score of 77.1, while Central Africa is the lowest scoring region, with an average score of 32.8.

Regional average Civil Registration scores, 2016 (Rank/5; Score/100.0)

Rank	Region	2016 Score
1	North Africa	77.1
2	Southern Africa	72.9
3	West Africa	64.2
4	East Africa	51.0
5	Central Africa	32.8

At country level, Algeria, Malawi, Namibia and Zambia are the highest scoring countries, scoring 100.0 (the best possible score), while Equatorial Guinea and Somalia are the lowest scoring countries, scoring 0.0.

The presence of a functioning birth and death registration system is vital for citizens to exercise their individual rights and benefit from the public services they are entitled to. The 2017 IIAG findings show positive linear correlations between the 2016 African average scores of the Civil Registration indicator and the sub-categories Rights, Participation, Welfare and Health (+0.38, +0.35, +0.33 and +0.31, respectively). Civil registration is also a key element of the government's capacity to produce vital statistics, and a positive correlation also exists between Civil Registration and the Governmental Statistical Capacity indicator (+0.37).

The positive linear correlation between Civil Registration and Overall Governance is +0.42.

Regional Integration: a new indicator in the IIAG

The indicator Regional Integration is included for the first time in the IIAG in 2017, and is drawn from the African Development Bank (AfDB)¹. As a part of the Business Environment sub-category, Regional Integration assesses the government's actions and efforts to promote free movement of persons and labour and easy right of establishment, and its actions and efforts to contribute to regional financial integration. The data are available from source from 2013 to 2016.

The Regional Economic Communities (RECs) are eight subregional groupings of African states considered as the building blocks of the African Union (AU). The RECs' main mandate is to facilitate regional economic integration and to contribute to implementing the continental agenda from development to peace and security.

The application of the Regional Integration indicator to RECs' groupings is intended to shed light on the strength of regional linkages across the continent and to compare the degree of regional progress on issues such as free movement of persons and capital.²

EAC and ECOWAS rank 1st and 2nd (out of eight RECs) in Regional Integration in 2016 (scoring 76.1 and 65.0 respectively). On the other hand, AMU and IGAD are the two lowest scoring RECs in 2016 (with scores of 50.0 and 46.9, respectively). AMU is also the only region whose Regional Integration score has been the same over the past decade. Contrary to this, ECOWAS, EAC and COMESA have experienced the largest annual average improvements over the past five years (+0.93, +0.80 and +0.78, respectively).

Average scores for Regional Integration, RECs

At the country level, Uganda, Rwanda and Burkina Faso present the highest scores in 2016 (100.0, 93.8 and 87.5, respectively). The positive results of Uganda and Rwanda, together with Kenya, which ranks 7th with a score of 81.3 in 2016, are the main drivers behind the performance of the EAC in this indicator. The Northern Corridor Integration Project set up by Kenya, Rwanda and Uganda reflects their role as pioneers in advancing regional integration.

On the contrary, Eritrea, Somalia and South Sudan⁴, all IGAD member states, are the lowest scoring countries in 2016 (with scores of 25.0, 25.0 and 0.0, respectively).

Since 2007, Zimbabwe has been the most improved country (+18.8, at an annual average rate of +2.09). However, the country has come from a low base and ranks 29th with a score of 43.8 in 2016. On the other hand, Central African Republic has experienced the largest deterioration over the last ten years (-12.5, at an annual average rate of -1.39), while scoring 50.0 and ranking 25th.

10-year & 5-year annual average trends

Countries ordered by size of the 10-year trend.

Human Development: a decade of progress for the majority, but already losing pace

On average, the African continent has shown strong improvement in the category Human Development both over the last ten years (+4.4 points) and the most recent five years (+1.3 points). The African average score in 2016 (56.1 out of 100.0) is the highest score seen in this category since the first data year of the IIAG (2000).

However, the pace of progress appears to be slowing with an average annual increase of +0.33 points over the last five years, in comparison to the average annual increase over the last decade of +0.49.

All three underlying sub-categories of Human Development improve over the last ten years. The largest improvement is seen in Health (+8.0), followed by Education (+3.6) and Welfare (+1.8). All three sub-categories also contribute to the slower growth seen in the latest five years.

It is Education that registers the largest slowdown. In the last five years the African average score has improved by only +0.05 points on average per year, compared to +0.40 over the last decade.

Over the last decade, most countries (46) have registered a positive trend, mirroring that of the continental average improvement. Over the last five years, 37 countries are still able to continue to show a positive trend yet the number of countries declining more than doubles.

'Increasing Improvement': 14 countries

The long-term story for Africa in Human Development remains a positive one, with 14 countries 'Increasing Improvement' in the last five years.

Côte d'Ivoire, Egypt and Togo display the largest gains.

Ranking in the bottom ten countries in Human Development ten years ago (2007), Togo has since climbed 15 rank places to the 32^{nd} position with an annual average trend of +1.50 over the decade, accelerating to +1.58 over the last five years.

'Bouncing Back' & 'Slowing Deterioration': 4 countries

Three countries — Eritrea, Somalia and Tunisia — demonstrate that they are going some way to reversing their long-term negative trends. Within negative trends over the past decade, they display positive trends over the last five years; they are 'Bouncing Back'.

To a lesser extent, Madagascar is showing steps towards diminishing its negative trend, displaying 'Slowing Deterioration'.

'Slowing Improvement' & 'Warning Signs': 33 countries

Over the last five years, of the countries to show progress over a decade, the majority are either showing 'Slowing Improvement', or 'Warning Signs' in this period.

Twenty countries maintain a positive trajectory over the decade, but at a slower average rate over the last five years. For Malawi and São Tomé & Príncipe, rates of improvement have slowed by more than ten times their longer-term rates of improvement. Mozambique, Rwanda and Zambia, have dropped to less than half their ten-year average rates. Cameroon, Democratic Republic of Congo, Niger and Tanzania register smaller or marginal drops in their rates of improvement.

Despite maintaining a positive average trend over the decade, thirteen countries show a negative annual average trend in the last five years, displaying 'Warning Signs' for the upcoming performance of these countries in this category.

This includes four of the top ten ranking countries in Human Development in 2016; Mauritius (1st), Botswana (3rd), Cabo Verde

(4th) and South Africa (8th), as well as low-ranking countries; Sierra Leone (49th) and Central African Republic (52nd).

Sierra Leone is the third most deteriorated country in Human Development in the last five years declining by almost -1.0 on average each year in this period.

'Increasing Deterioration': 2 countries

Of the six countries that show decline over a decade, two — Libya and Ghana — are deteriorating at an even quicker pace in the last five years. Libya and Ghana are also the most deteriorated countries of the continent in Human Development in the last five years. Ghana's downward trajectory over the past decade has seen it fall from the 8^{th} rank to 12^{th} while Libya's substantial decline in the same period has seen the country drop 15 rank places from 3^{rd} in 2007 to 18^{th} in 2016.

Welfare: improvement is slackening

Whilst the African average score for Welfare has improved over the last decade, progress registers a slight slowdown in the last five years. Improvements can be seen in the vast majority of countries and indicators, but not sufficiently to accelerate progress at the sub-category level. Twenty of the 38 countries that have improved in Welfare since 2007 show 'Slowing Improvement' or 'Warning Signs' in the last five years.

Continental indicator performance

'Increasing Improvement'

Four of the nine underlying Welfare indicators show 'Increasing Improvement'. Between 2012 and 2016, Africa's score for Narrowing Income Gaps has increased its pace of improvement fivefold, albeit coming from a low average score, while Poverty improvement has almost doubled. For both indicators, which are public opinion data, more than half of the assessed countries display 'Increasing Improvement', namely Egypt, Niger and Senegal.

Africa (average scores)	2016 Score	Trend 2007-2016	Annual average trend	Trend 2012-2016	Annual average trend
Poverty	55.5	+8.0	+0.89	+6.4	+1.60
Narrowing Income Gaps	37.0	+2.2	+0.24	+4.9	+1.23

Social Protection & Labour	52.9	+1.2	+0.13	+1.1	+0.28

'Bouncing Back'

Also contributing to the sub-category's improvement are Poverty Reduction Priorities and Environmental Policy. Whilst registering negative ten-year trends, both have stopped declining in the last five years and show a static trend. Poverty Reduction Priorities has seen 14 countries 'Increasing Improvement' and ten 'Bouncing Back', with the largest improvements seen in Egypt (+17.2) and Uganda (+16.2). However, improvements at indicator level are not sufficient to accelerate progress at the sub-category level.

Africa (average scores)	2016 Score	Trend 2007-2016	Annual average trend	Trend 2012-2016	Annual average trend
Poverty Reduction Priorities	50.5	-1.9	-0.21	0.0	0.00
Environmental Policy	40.9	-0.3	-0.03	0.0	0.00

'Slowing Improvement' & 'Warning Signs'

Driving Welfare's slowdown are two indicators showing worsening recent performance compared to a decade's progress. The pace of improvement of Environmental Sustainability in the last five years is more than nine times slower than the last decade. Almost half of the continent (26 countries) is showing either 'Slowing Improvement' or 'Warning Signs'. Meanwhile, Social Safety Nets has declined at an average of -0.38 points per year since 2012. This deterioration is mainly driven by Libya, which has declined from a score of 88.5 in 2012 to 15.4 in 2016 at an average annual trend of -18.28 points.

Africa (average scores)	2016 Score	Trend 2007-2016	Annual average trend	Trend 2012-2016	Annual average trend

Social Safety Nets	43.5	+3.4	+0.38	-1.5	-0.38

'Increasing Deterioration'

Social Exclusion is dragging the sub-category further down, driving its 'Slowing Improvement'. While only seven countries deteriorate between 2012 and 2016, the magnitudes of recent declines in Libya (-35.7), Benin (-14.3) and Ghana (-14.2) drive down the average continental scores and trends.

Education: progress has almost stopped in the last 5 years

Over the last decade the African continent has managed to gain +3.6 points in Education. Although the subcategory still registers a positive story of growth, progress has almost stopped in the latter half of the decade with an annual average trend of only +0.05 points, eight times slower than over the decade (+0.40). Education remains the lowest scoring sub-category in Human Development with a score of 48.3.

This slowdown is reflected at both indicator and country level. All eight underlying Education indicators have, in some way, contributed to the general slackening of the sub-category score in the last five years: one (Education Provision) even registers 'Increasing Deterioration', while all the others register either 'Slowing Improvement' or 'Warning Signs'.

At the country level, most of the continent is either showing 'Slowing Improvement' (16 countries) or 'Warning Signs' (19 countries) between 2012 and 2016. The number of countries showing 'Slowing Improvement' is a cause for concern, Morocco showing the most extreme slowdown. The country's annual pace of improvement over the last five years is almost 30 times slower. Among the 19 countries displaying 'Warning Signs', high ranking Botswana is presenting a worrying average decline of -0.95 points per year.

Continental indicator performance

'Slowing Improvement'

Five Education underlying indicators present a slackening progress between 2012 and 2016, contributing to the subcategory's 'Slowing Improvement'.

Primary School Completion shows the biggest slowdown with an average pace of improvement almost three times slower in the last five years compared with the last ten years. Although 37 countries have improved over the last decade, almost half of these (18 countries) display 'Slowing Improvement' in the last five years. Burundi, which has registered the third largest improvement since 2007, has been progressing more than eight times slower in the last five years than over the last decade. Also driving the indicator average slowdown are large recent declines in countries such as São Tomé & Príncipe (-22.5 in total) and Rwanda (-7.9 in total), which had progressed over the decade.

'Warning Signs'

Two indicators - Education Quality and Educational System Management - present 'Warning Signs', threatening to reverse the progress achieved during the last decade at the indicator and at the sub-category level. Both measures assess education institutions and systems.

Fourteen countries are showing 'Warning Signs' in the last five years in Education Quality. Angola, although growing at an annual average pace of +1.84 points between 2007 and 2016, has been declining at by -4.18 points per year since 2012. Also driving down the score of Education Quality is the fact that five of the eight countries that have deteriorated over the decade show 'Increased Deterioration' in the last five years, namely Libya which has almost doubled its average pace of decline from -5.56 to -10.43.

Educational System Management	40.8	+1.7	+0.19	-1.3	-0.33

'Increasing Deterioration'

Education Provision hinders further progress in the Education sub-category. The indicator assesses the extent to which the public is satisfied with how the government is addressing educational needs. The data is taken from a public attitude survey developed in 37 African countries.

Over the last ten years, Education Provision has declined by -11.3 points. Besides being the most deteriorated indicator in the Human Development category, it is also the eighth most deteriorated indicator of the IIAG. Most of the decline has occurred in the latter half of the decade, with the annual average pace of decline increasing from -1.26 to -2.08. In the last five years it is the third most deteriorated.

Quickening decline at the indicator level is driven by the fact that half of the assessed countries (19 out of 37 countries) shows 'Increasing Deterioration'. Amongst these, it is of a concern that eight countries register an annual average pace of deterioration larger than -5.00 points: Ghana (-8.03), Burundi (-7.48), Liberia (-7.38), Burkina Faso (-6.65), Madagascar (-6.38), Zimbabwe (-6.13), Algeria (-5.88) and Malawi (-5.10).

The Education Provision indicator only covers 37 African countries and for four of these there is no trend classification.

Health: progress is slowing down

The African average score in Health (71.5 out of 100.0) is the second highest of the IIAG sub-categories and is also the most improved over the last ten years (+8.0). However, in the past ten years the subcategory's progress has been slackening. This slowdown is reflected at the country level: 30 of the 51 countries that have improved over the decade are showing either 'Slowing Improvement' or 'Warning Signs'. The slowdown is also reflected at the indicator level.

Continental indicator performance

'Increasing Improvement'

Two indicators are pushing forward Health's progress in Africa. In the last five years, Public Health Campaigns has more than doubled its pace of improvement, with four countries improving on average by +12.50 points per year since 2012 (Liberia, Nigeria, Senegal and Somalia). Antiretroviral Treatment (ART) Provision has marginally improved its annual average trend over the last five years, with average annual progress of more than +10.00 in Benin, Democratic Republic of Congo, Equatorial Guinea and Gabon.

On average, this is Africa's most improved indicator in the IIAG over both the last ten and five years.

'Slowing Improvement' & 'Warning Signs'

Almost all African countries show a slowdown in progress in Child Mortality except for Cabo Verde and Seychelles. It should be noted however that every single African country improves its Child Mortality score over both the last ten and five years. The pace of improvement in Undernourishment is more than halved in the last five years. For just over one third of the continent (19 countries) progress is slowing. However, continental averages mask diverging scores: nine countries score 100.0 in this indicator but 20 score below the African average, Zambia the lowest (23.0). Recent slowdown at the sub-category level has also been driven by Immunisation, in which more than a third of the continent (20 countries) display 'Warning Signs'. Zimbabwe presents a particularly worrying situation, showing signs of reversing a decade's annual average improvement of +1.92 points with a fiveyear annual average decline of -2.75 points.

'Increasing Deterioration'

Decline in Basic Health Services is hindering progress at the subcategory level. The deterioration registered over the last decade gets worse over the last five years. In the last five years, eight countries have deteriorated by an average of more than -5.00 points per year: Algeria, Burkina Faso, Burundi, Ghana, Liberia, Madagascar, Sierra Leone and Zimbabwe. Over the last decade, Ghana is the most deteriorated country with a decline of -59.6 points.

The 2017 IIAG covers a 17-year data period from 2000 to 2016. The full IIAG data set, including underlying raw data and normalised scores, as calculated for the express purposes of the Index, is available online via the Foundation's website at: http://mo.ibrahim.foundation/iiag/downloads/

All figures on IIAG outputs are displayed to one decimal place. The calculation method to arrive at these scores is as follows:

- Country scores are calculated on full-precision raw data values (using the exact values as they are collected from source).
 All scores are then rounded to one decimal place.
- Group averages are calculated on the rounded, one decimal place country scores.
- Both trends over time and ranks are calculated on the scores to one decimal place.

The exception to this are the annual average trend figures. These are calculated on the rounded trends over time, and displayed to two decimal places. Classifications are assigned based on the full precision of the annual average trend.

Forty-three of the 100 indicators in the IIAG were formed by clustering together a number of variables which each measure the same dimension or similar concept. For each indicator these variables, called 'sub-indicators', may come from the same or multiple sources. The value of a clustered indicator is the average of the underlying sub-indicators.

For the purposes of setting base years for trend analysis (improvements and deteriorations over time), in all 2017 IIAG publications and tables these are set at a ten-year period, 2007-2016, and five-year period, 2012-2016 (unless otherwise stated). Please note that users of the IIAG can carry out analysis of any other time-periods by using our online and offline Data Portals available via our website.

The 2017 IIAG does not include data for South Sudan prior to secession in 2011. Due to the lack of data, ten-year trends are not available for this country. Since the country trend classifications are based on a comparison of a country's ten and five-year trends, these are not provided for South Sudan.

The absence of South Sudan scores prior to 2011 means that 53 countries are ranked in 2000 to 2010 inclusive and 54 countries are ranked in 2011 to 2017 inclusive. This should be taken into account when looking at rank change over time. Similarly, averages calculated for groups which include South Sudan exclude the country in pre-secession years.

All other group averages, including Regional Economic Communities and regional groups, are calculated on their current group composition.

Data for Sudan prior to 2011 (Former Sudan) have been used in the 2017 IIAG. Despite Sudan being a new country post-secession of South Sudan, pre-2011 data for 'Former Sudan' are deemed a suitable proxy for governance in Sudan.

Somalia has no underlying raw data for all indicators in the Rural Sector sub-category (2000-2016). In this instance Somalia does not receive a score or rank. For this instance and the years where South Sudan does not receive a rank and score (2000-2010) this is indicated by ".".

The Mo Ibrahim Foundation (MIF) is aware that some sources update their data sets after our documentation is sent to print. IIAG raw data are correct as per the data "last accessed", which is stated for each indicator within the Data Portal and the Metadata (downloadable via our website).
